Dear Parents

Schooling Update

This beautiful weather is making it a surreal time – knowing that there's a major health crisis intensifying around us, and yet the air never having felt fresher, nor the streets quieter.

I am really pleased to report that our students are fully engaging with the online learning experience our staff are working so hard to provide. Many students are submitting some outstanding pieces of work, which we hope to publish on our website over the next couple of days.

If you or your child are experiencing any difficulties accessing the work, please remember their Learning Coach is the first point of contact.

I hope you and all your family are keeping well, please remember we are here for you should you need any help or support.

Kinds regards
