Dear Parent

Red Nose Day and World Book Day – Friday 18 March 2022

This year we are combining Red Nose Day and World Book Day at NTC. We have supported both charities for a number of years.

As I am sure you all know, Red Nose Day is a charity appeal organised by Comic Relief, supported by the BBC. Comic Relief has been raising funds since 1988 and this year their main objective is to help raise enough funds to help remove child poverty and transform children's lives in the UK and worldwide through education.

Alongside this we are also supporting World Book Day which encourages children to read, and widen their imaginations and be successful in all that they do.

We are asking students and staff to donate £1, of which 50p will go towards Red Nose Day and 50p to World Book Day. If you would like to wear fancy dress, the theme will be Gothic Literature such as Frankenstein or you may wear your own clothes on the day. It would be in keeping with the appeal if students wore something red, but their usual casual clothes will be perfectly acceptable!

All proceeds will go to Comic Relief & World Book Day the money for own clothes day should be handed to Learning Coaches on the morning of Friday 18 March.

A reminder to all students to remember to bring in their school card and usual equipment e.g. pens with them on Friday.

We would like to thank you in advance for your support of such worthy charities.

Yours faithfully
